THE DUKE AND DUCHESS IN LONDON—This latest glimpse of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor was taken when he met her at Victoria station in London, Eng., after her arrival from Paris. The duke has been in London since April 4 on a visit to Queen Mary. He and his wife were the guests of Lord Dudley at Sandringham.—S.N.S. photo.

WHAT NEXT FOR MILADY'S HAT?—Rosemary, not how, decorate several of the hats worn by New Yorkers in this season. Hard-boiled eggs, too, are utilized by Ruth Kunkin and Louise Hendman.—S.N.S. photo.

PREVENTS BAD CRASH—Hero of a railway mishap is Robert G. Quinn, 27, of Hamilton, Ont., C.N.R. brakeman, who hung to the top of a runaway box car for a two-mile down-grade run, then jumped for his life just a few seconds before it hit the rear of a standing passenger train. Six people were slightly injured, and railway officials believe the accident would have been serious had not the brakeman slowed down the car, which was heavily loaded with metal castings.—S.N.S. photo.

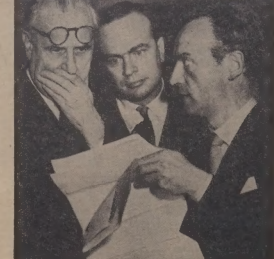

PRINCESS ELIZABETH REPRESENTS KING—Mausy money ceremony over Princess Elizabeth bids good-bye to the Daup of Westminster. She attended the ceremony, the distribution of the King's Easter gift of shoes, at Westminster Abbey, in place of the King, who is still convalescing after his recent operation.—S.N.S. photo.

U.N. PALESTINE MEDIATOR IN SWEDEN—Dr. Ralph Bunche, United Nations Palestine mediator who brought about the armistice agreement that brought peace to Israel, is pictured at Bromma airport in Stockholm. He was greeted by Countess Estelle Bernadotte, the widow of Count Folke Bernadotte, former Palestine mediator who was assassinated last year.—S.N.S. photo.

IN FIGHT FOR RETURN OF ITALIAN COLONIES—Alberto Tarde, (left), Italian ambassador to the United States, is shown with Italian delegation member Masini, (center), as they conferred at Lake Success, N.Y., after the first meeting of the United Nations political committee on the return of Italy's former African colonies. The man at right is Augusto Orlando, an Italian broadcaster.—S.N.S. photo.

THEY'RE PROUD OF THEIR DADDIES—Shown gazing proudly at a photo of the much-loved colonel, Mrs. June Rindel and her 15-year-old son, Tricky, as well as Fella Harris, daughter of Harris. They don't have to be told that angle by, because they know what their dad can do. In his hand, Dickie holds a cheque for $5,000, a tangible result of the remarkable endurance feat, and money that will be used to pay medical expenses for the boy's arthritis and for Fella's asthma treatment.—S.N.S. photo.

ARTIFICIAL LIGHTING BRINGS EARLY MORNINGS—Lorraine Berre of Woodbridge, Ont., holds an aerial of chrysanthemums which modern horticulture methods have produced in Woodbridge and Weston, Ont., greenhouses. Blowing time for "mums" is usually in the fall but the use of special lighting has advanced the time eight months.—S.N.S. photo.

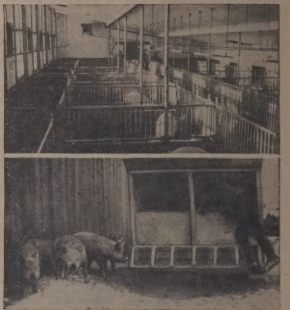

BLOSSOMS FRAME NOTRE DAME CATHEDRAL—The towers of Notre Dame cathedral in Paris, France, rise behind a screen of cherry blossoms along the Seine river as spring comes to the French capital.—S.N.S. photo.

QUEEN OF STENOGRAPHERS—Queen of the dictating job at Hamilton, Ont., and chosen as the American City's perfect stenographer, Joyce Hart, 35, presides over the big event sponsored by the Hamilton Junior Chamber of Commerce. She led off the fashion parade which was a feature of the event.—S.N.S. photo.

CANADA'S BEST CONTRIBUTION—Thrifty bitsers of Yorkshire bacon tops are Canada's best contribution to the bacon industry. Up-to-date methods and equipment have vastly increased the country's hog production in the past decade and now the hog themselves provide a good market for prairie barley growers. Litters benefit from modern sows' barns such as shown in Northern New Brunswick. The home-made self-feeder below saves a lot of time and labor.—S.N.S. photo.

REMOVED FROM ROOF AFTER 47-FOOT FALL—Stripped and tied to a stretcher, James Robertson, 47, a sign painter from Hamilton, Ont., is unconscious as he is about to be lowered from the roof of a Hamilton store to an ambulance waiting three stories below. He had fallen 46 feet, landing on his head on roof of building adjoining one on which he was working. He rolled to a ledge which kept him from falling to the street.—S.N.S. photo.

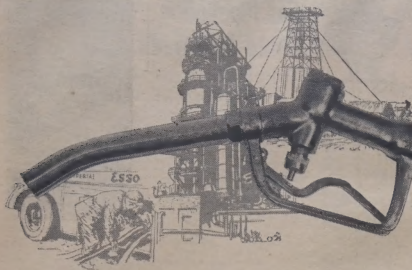

LARGEST SHEET OF PLATE GLASS INSERTED—Largest sheet of plate glass in Canada has been set in place in a store in Toronto, Ont. Here is the scene as workmen went about the job. The glass, 260 inches long and weighing 2,700 pounds, needed the careful attention of 16 men and a crane to get it installed. Wire had to be cut and police controlled traffic during work.—S.N.S. photo.

WATER IS NICE—Even with frozen weather, residents here still enjoy a swim. Shirley Ellis has a wonderful time swimming in a municipal pool. She is a member of the local swimming club.—S.N.S. photo.

"THIS IS THE LIFE"—"What we've been missing!" say these three British youngsters as they sample candy. For the first time in three years they were able to go into a shop and purchase what they wanted. Sweets are ration-free for first time in seven years. Youngsters are happy.—S.N.S. photo.

There's a big investment behind the gas for every car

Finding oil and bringing it to you—in the kind of products you need, and at low prices—is a big job and takes a lot of money. Behind that dependable supply are thousands of Canadians engaged in finding, producing, transporting, refining and marketing—working with tools that cost hundreds of millions. But the investment in those tools is your guarantee of adequate supply and minimum price.

FIRST, the oil must be found. This means expensive equipment and the risking of money in patent search. A single deep test drilling rig is worth half a million dollars and one unsuccessful well in the Alberta foothills has cost more than a million. Then when oil fields are found, they must be developed; just to drill and equip one well in the Leduc field costs about $100,000.

SECOND, crude oil must be transported to a refinery. Tank cars, pipe lines and ocean and lake tankers are the vehicles. A large pipe line may cost $100,000 a mile; Imperial's largest tanker, just put into service, cost more than $5 millions.

THIRD, the crude oil must be refined into hundreds of useful products. Large and complex refining units are the workmen's equipment here. To meet your increasing needs for more and better products Imperial since the war has added refining capacity to process an extra 31,000 barrels per day. The cost was more than $50 millions.

FOURTH, the products must be marketed—this means they must be made available to you when and where you need them. The tools of the marketer are such things as service stations, truck fleets, coastal ships, barges, oil drums and tanks. This equipment, too, adds up to millions.

Canadians are using twice as much oil as in 1939. To help meet your increasing needs Imperial has sought and found new fields, built ships and pipe lines, erected new refinery units, installed new marketing equipment. It costs more than twice as much to do these things as before the war.

The money we needed to do these things came from borrowing, from the sale of investments and from earnings put back into the business after paying dividends.

This money is helping to provide the tools to bring you all the oil you need—at the lowest possible price.

Bringing you oil is a big job—and a costly one.

The price of a gallon of gasoline today about the same as the price of a gallon of distilled water.

For years before the war the wholesale price of gasoline dropped almost steadily and although it has been caught in the general upward of costs it has not increased nearly as much as other commodities.

Since 1939 the general wholesale price index has more than doubled but the petroleum products price index has advanced by less than two-thirds.

On its 1949 operations budget Imperial's profit equivalent to less than one cent a gallon for each gallon of products sold.

many, are giving rise to guesses as to subsequent developments in the field of relations between Russia and her satellite states on the one hand, and the Western powers on the other.

Most informed observers appear to believe that the resolution of the difficulties in Germany will open the way to the lifting of at least some of the trade barriers now existing between East and West, and hence, eventually to the betterment of mutual understanding and the brightening of chances for lasting peace.

There should be none who do not wholeheartedly wish for the fulfillment of these hopes, but many of us will wonder how deep the source of the apparent change of Russian viewpoint may be. Does it spring from a better understanding of the necessity for free freedom in human relations and government? Or is it a superficial change of attitude adopted as a pose to facilitate the moral and material disarmament of the opponents of Communists and thus render world domination an object more easily attained? It could be a change of heart for the better, or a new tactical variety of psychological warfare.

We shall not know the answer to our questions for some years. The record of Communistic materialism is not such that we should mistake, at this stage, any alleviation of symptoms for a permanent cure of the disease. Therefore, the Western democracies should not take any precipitate action to dissipate the strength behind the Atlantic Pact, not the moral strength, the economic strength, nor the military strength.

The opponents of free and untrammelled democracy will not agree with what they term the lack of peaceful intent backed up by active evidence of good faith. They argue firstly, that the maintenance of armed strength is unnecessary, in view of the allegedly enlightened attitude of Communist countries; and secondly, that the possession of armed might will lead to war as it has in the past.

To the first of these arguments, we might well reply that the good faith of Communist countries has not been favourably evaluated or determined. Certainly the record in this respect is not impressive.

To the second, we may agree that the possession of armed might has led to war in the past, but we must point out that this has happened only when that armed might has been preponderant and available to one side only, the aggressor side. A true democracy cannot be an aggressor, the people would not permit it.

It therefore appears that for the present, we of the West, should trust only in God, keep our powder dry, and have plenty of it.

F. C. Richert left last week for three weeks' vacation in the United States, visiting relatives in Dakota and other points.

Milton Hamilton, who is employed by the Imperial Oil Company, Ltd., was a visitor in Delta over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gibson left on Sunday for Edmonton to attend the graduation of their daughter, Muriel, from the Alberta University School of Nursing, which took place on Monday of this week.

Miss Eileen Hudgeon, of Dunfermline, Scotland, has been visiting her mother for the past few weeks at Drumheller hospital. It is reported there is slight improvement in the condition of Mrs. Hudgeon.

There came a welcome break in the warm, dry weather on Monday. Leadon skies that had been threatening since early morning brought liberal precipitation in the afternoon which continued throughout the night, accompanied by boisterous wind from the north. Stormy weather prevailed on Tuesday morning, with snow and sleet after which gradually cleared later in the day. Official record for the Delta district is three-quarters of an inch of moisture.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By H. G. L. Strang
Director "The Crop Trading Programme"

Increased Use of Registered Seed
During the years 1947 there was an extraordinary and unexpected demand for registered seed at high prices for export. This was caused by the alarming lack of wheat in the world. In the spring, 1948, many Canadian farmers purchased and sowed increased quantities of registered seed in order to participate in this export trade. The large export trade expected in 1949 unfortunately did not materialize, which left a large surplus of Registered seed.

The Canadian Seed Growers' Association then engaged in a most extensive publicity campaign in order to induce Canadian farmers to use more registered seed than usual. The results have been beyond all expectations. Farmers have saved more registered seed for the improvement of their domestic crops than ever known before, so that there has been actually a shortage of many kinds and varieties of seed.
